WE NOMINATE

Lawrence Heyl, Princeton University's self-effacing Associate Librarian and one of the perceptive bookmen of this century, who during the week past—with the fanfare generated by the annual dinner of the University Library Staff Association—completed 42 years of distinguished service to the community which is Princeton. As well as any other living Princetonian, this 68-year old administrator, with a marked capacity for the smiling, wry remark, senses all that has transpired here over the past several decades as Princeton, N. J., cast off its parochialism to become a catalytic force in the forward movement of the "industry of education and research."

It is noteworthy that the New York-born Heyl, the son of a well-known book-dealer and an alumnus of City College of New York, has been closely associated with three of the University's outstanding librarians. His contributions led the present librarian, William Shepherd Dix, recent chairman of this country's UNESCO Commission, to comment: "In his period of service, the Library added more volumes than in the 170 years of its growth before 1920. His knowledge of books, his skill in matching needs against available resources, and his dedication have clearly been dominant factors in making this one of the country's major research libraries."

An apprenticeship in the book trade preceded Heyl's entrance into education. The late James Thayer Gerould, then librarian at the University of Minnesota, was in need of an order department head and wanted a "book man" as opposed to a professionally trained librarian. Heyl accepted the post and in 1915 headed for Minneapolis. Five years later, when Gerould was bid by Princeton, he asked Heyl to accompany him as Chief of the Acquisitions Department, a title Heyl was to hold until 1937 and responsibilities he was to shoulder during the crowded years marked by the Library's movement into the Firestone building and the development of the concept of a library serving as a "humanistic laboratory."

Heyl, a founding officer of the Friends of the Princeton Library and for the past 23 years an editorial board member and departmental head of the "Princeton Library Chronicle," has long been involved in the affairs of the Conference of Eastern College Librarians. Indicative of his standing in his profession are the committee assignments he has handled over the past quarter-century. A former chairman of the Conference's Out-of-Print Project, he has been concerned with the libraries' relationships with publishers, has done yeoman's work as a member of the Acquisitions Committee of the American Library Association, and has represented the colleges on the Committee for the Study of Copyright.

Deeply interested in "good music" and the theater, and in yesteryear active in the Princeton Community Players, the soft-spoken Heyl was singled out for the highest kind of praise at the Annual Meeting of the Friends of the Library. Citing his judgment with respect to new acquisitions, his grasp of the needs in need of bolstering, and his understanding of the whims of book collectors, the Friends emphasized: "He has steered us skillfully between the Scylla of extravagance and the Charybdis of parsimony and we owe more to his care and watchfulness, his ripe judgment and experienced touch, than we can hope to put into words."

For his role in the controlled growth of a library which today serves scholars from all parts of the world; for his capacities for anticipating both institutional and individual needs; for dedicating his career to the belief that "no man-made structure outlives a book"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

Only the Borough, they argue, can appropriate property to acquire sufficient parking space. Modern office buildings, they say, bring a tax revenue increased by the increase in the average taxpayer and forestall the growing deterioration of the downtown area.

In other decisions, the Zoning Board approved the variance requests of Princeton University in connection with the relocation of Wood-Wilson School, the planned Frick Laboratory addition and the new structure for the Wood-Wilson School of Public and International Affairs designed by Minoru Yamasaki.

Also approved were the applications of Mather Funeral Home for a one-story addition to the rear, and of Fred

STATEMENT DENIED
By Rohrer On Schools
Graham Rohrer, president of the Borough Council, denied the news this week that he had told Richard Pearson, chairman of the Township School Board, that Princeton would not have two high schools by 1970.

At the June 21 meeting of the Township board, Pearson had said, "Mr. Rohrer agreed that Princeton will need two high schools by 1968 or early 1970."

"That is a statement that I did not make and for which there is no basis in fact," Mr.
Rohrer said. "Mr. Pearson and I have discussed all that concerns a large measure of control over high school population through the number and length of contracts with the several school districts where students make up the total enrollment."

Mr. Rohrer cited the notices sent to Montgomery Township and Hopewell Borough notifying them that Princeton High School could accept no new students in the fall of 1965, and said this actually provides us with sufficient capacity to accommodate students from Borough and Township well within in the planned capacity of our present facilities during this period.

In a letter to Robert R. Palmer concerning Mr. Palmer's presentation of a petition to the Borough Council, Mr. Rohrer said, "Our Board has formally agreed to arrange with the Township Board a special study made by outside experts which would accomplish the primary objective of the petition."

BIG ORDINANCE REVISED

Now More "Liberal." The revised draft of the dog ordinance for the Township will permit dogs to run free on public streets, provided they do not bite or create a nuisance.

The substance of the revision, as it now stands, was outlined at Monday's meeting of Township Committee by Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman in response to questions from Mrs. Sabine Gajewsky of 63 Shadybrook Lane.

Mr. Fairman said the revised draft reflected a 3-2 split in the Committee's thinking. The minority, he said, favored an ordinance that would keep dogs off the streets at all times unless accompanied by a responsible party. John S. Mount and Maurice F. Healy, Jr., are the members inclined toward total restraint.

Mr. Fairman said the "somewhat more liberal" ordinance had been drafted by Township Attorney John D. Moore in accord with the majority view. That view, he said, is that, given a dog control officer, trouble from dogs can be stopped effectively upon receipt of complaints.

Mrs. Gajewsky disrupted this view. She said a child "only has to be bitten once" and she said was "completely in favor" of the original ordinance. She said that dogs should be restrained at least during the hours that children walk to and from school.

Mr. Fairman said the new draft also makes clearer that fines for violations can be imposed only after a hearing before a magistrate—not by police officer or dog control officer acting independently. The new ordinance may possibly be introduced on July 16.

Mr. Fairman reported that the Planning Board has recommended against changing zoning laws to permit light industry in the Township. He said the recommendation was based on the fact that the Township would not benefit economically from such a change.

The board, he said, found that the cost of providing services to light industry would not be offset by additional tax revenues. It also found that light industry would require too great an initial capital outlay.

Mr. Fairman named a three-man committee to prepare a report for Committee's next meeting setting forth facts and figures to support these findings.

The text of the Planning Board's recommendation was a matter of public record. Rather, the substance of the recommendation was summarized by Mr. Fairman. He said the special report for the next meeting will be issued as a press release.

Two years ago the Township adopted its first light industry zoning permit to the now bankrupt Princeton Electronics Corp. for construction of a plant on Main Street 78 Alexander Street. Dorsett Princeton Research Center, Inc., is now at that location.

Joseph Nini, administrator of the special permit, still says it was a good idea. After that time he said the Dorsett firm, if determined to be light industry, "will either have to move out of the Township or apply for a continuation of the permit for a some period of time."

Committee voted 5-0 to provide sewer service to the Hillside Avenue area by a sub-trunk sewer in Hillside Avenue and Route 206, a main trunk station to be located in the Herkinton Road. The cost of the facilities was estimated at $285,000.

Committee chose an area two less expensive alternatives involving a temporary treatment plant were rejected. Committee member John S. Mount said the plan chosen would be the soundest investment in the future of the Township, rather than a specific momentary solution.

Committee set for July 23 a public hearing on a recommendation from the Zoning Board that Dr. Arnold B. Lampet of 474 Rosedale Road be granted a variance to build a dentist's office at 204 North Hawley Street in a residential zone.

The action was taken only after argument concerning the propriety of Committee's recommendation that the variance for light industry would require too great an initial capital outlay.

Mr. Fairman named a three-man committee to prepare a report for Committee's next meeting setting forth facts and figures to support these findings.

The text of the Planning Board's recommendation was a matter of public record. Rather, the substance of the recommendation was summarized by Mr. Fairman. He said the special report for the next meeting will be issued as a press release.

In denying the request, the Zoning Board said it believed the apartments would be a substantial detriment to the public good, due to the crowding, increase in traffic and the safety of school children walking to Valley Road and Central Park schools.

In addition, the Board found that the variance would "substantially impair" the intent of the zoning plan and of the zoning ordinance and said it believed that there was no demonstrated need for the apartments, and that they would change the residential character of the neighborhood.

The Zoning Board also pointed out that Mr. and Mrs. Turner, in selling other parts of their property, had not proposed "Alansgrove," had insisted on deed restrictions requiring that the various properties be used only for single-family homes.

The question of an extension of Teriune Road through the Turner property was the subject of considerable discussion in the course of the "Mansgrave" hearings, because Mr. Turner maintained that the existence of this future road kept away potential builders of single-family homes.

The Zoning Board maintained that the Turners had never attempted to place the location of the road by applying to the Planning Board, which could have fixed the location in such a way that the property could have been developed for single-family homes.

Seymour Montgomery, attorney for the Turners, said that the Zoning Board's decision was under study. He did not say whether his client would appeal the decision.

"Mansgrave" was presented to the Zoning Board in a series of hearings starting October 19, 1961.

ACCIDENT KILLS FOUR Kendall Park Residents Die
A flat tire on their car on the New Jersey Turnpike brought down the curtain on the lives of four members of a Kendall Park family. A trailer-truck seeking to avoid ramming them jacked, whipped, dashed into them and burst into flames.

The three Kendall Park residents killed were Mrs. Elizabeth Gardalla, 29, Palmer Street, and her two children, Mary Ann and Thomas. The truck driver, not immediately identified, also died in the crash.

John Gardalla, 41, husband and father of those killed, had stopped to check on the car moments earlier and, so far in vain, to flag down the truck. He was uninjured, but in a state of extreme shock after a stop at the scene of the accident.

The crash occurred on the Holland Tunnel extension of the Turnpike. The highway was closed when emergency vehicles requiring repairs may pull over, and Mr. Gardalla was forced to bring his car to a stop in the extreme westbound lane.

CARS COLLIDE

Donald F. & Sonnenfeld, Elizabeth A. Zeno, 22, W. Roosevelt Boulevard, Philadelphia, and Harold A. Pearson, 18, State Road, were also issued summonses following a collision of their cars Saturday afternoon on Bayard Lane at Avalon Avenue, in Ewing.

Mr. Pearson, who was driving west on Bayard Lane, had stopped to wait for the "go" sign and then proceeded into the intersection. He was hit on the left side by Mrs. Zeno traveling north on Bayard Lane. Both cars were extensively damaged.

Ability to sprinkle when the rain isn't sprinkling should provide the proper incentive to just about everything in the garden. This weather may be in use during the next few days, since the only prediction for any form of precipitation is possible showers. Friday and Saturday are gradually warmer, too, but that traditional July heat and humidity isn't around yet.

Mr. Pearson was issued a summons for failing to yield after observing a "stop" sign. A careless driving summons was issued to Mrs. Zeno.

Child Triggers Crash. Distracted at the steering wheel when her baby slipped from the front seat, Mrs. Joyce S. Bush, 26, of Cedar Lane, Ewing, Skillman, veered to the right Friday morning and hit a parked car on Ewing Street, 100 feet from the intersection of Route 202.

Slightly injured were Robert Skeleton, Jr., age 6½ months.

News Of The THEATRES

NEW THEATRE TO OPEN
On Route One, the first new motion picture theatre in the Princeton area since 1937 will open next Wednesday with a 7 p.m. showing of "The Miracle Worker."

The Palmer Theatre on Route One in West Windsor, west of the Penns Neck traffic circle, will present two evening shows, one at 7 and one at 8:30 seven days a week, and a 6:30 matinee beginning and matinees Saturdays and Sundays.

Within the 650-seat theatre, customers will find air-conditioning, modern projection equipment capable of handling the largest commercial film, a balcony arrangement that allows leg room for theatre-goers over six feet tall.
Outside, there is limited parking in a covered lot.

The Palmer Theatre is operated by the Benair Amusement Center and is one of several drive-in and conventional theatres operated by the chain on the east coast.

The last motion picture house to be built in the environment of Princeton was the Princeton Playhouse on Palmer Square. It was opened to the public in 1937.

Farce is SCHEDULED

By Princeton Players. A witty French farce, "The Money," by Lobjeck and Dela-cours will open Tuesday at 8:30 as the second summer production of The Princeton Players.
The players' theatre is at 259
Nassau Street.

"Pots of Money" tells the story of a group of peasants who are traveling to Paris in the hope of finding work. They prey to trickery and decep-tions which provide ample room for social commentary as well as for high-spirited comedy.

George Nestor will appear in the role of Danne, bringing to the role the experience gained in off-Broadway productions of "The Merchant of Me," "Shadow of Heroes" and the two Ionesco plays "The Lesson" and "The New Tenant." Mr. Nestor is best known for his work on TV in "The Sacred Vanzetti Story" and "Moment of Fear."

Tom Maitland will appear as "Bourgeois" Shirley Kaufman will play a marriage broker.
James Hatch will be seen as "Chut" and Virginia de Angela as "Leslie."

Other featured players will be Alan Raeburn, who is also appearing in "The Entertainer"; Leo Cohen, who will be returning as the philhar-apist in "The Drunkard" and Lynn Milgrim, who comes to Princeton from Boston, where she appeared in "Ulysses in the Temple" at the Loeb Drama Center.

Tickets for "Pots of Money" and for "The Entertainer" may be obtained by calling the box office, WA 4-4928.

"The Entertainer" will open the season this Thursday, running for four nights, through Sunday. Originally scheduled to open Monday night, "The

ALUMNUS RETURNS: Jimmy
Stewart, a old-watching student, came to town to be a smoky drummer in
"Mr. Hobbs Takes A Vacation," coming to the Playhouse next Wednesday.

Entertainer" was postponed because the producer endeavored to find a man to obtain the right music for this music-hall drama. Because the music was not available, there were rehearsal problems.
The Players planned to postpone the opening in the interests of a more polished performance.

LET'S TAKE A TRIP

Up-river For a Show. "The Miracle Worker," William Gibson's classic drama based on the childhood of Helen Keller, will open next Monday at the Bucks County Playhouse, New
Hope, for a two-week run.
Written by a Amherst girl and engagement this Saturday, Annette Hunt, who understudied the role of Annie Sullivan in the original Broadway production of "The Miracle Worker," will play the title role and Rona Gale, recently featured with Helen Hayes in the Theatre Guild's "The Little Foxes," will repeat her performance of Helen Keller.

Across the river in Lam-bertville, "Guy" will complete its run at the Music Circus this Sunday, to be followed on Tuesday by "Florentine," which will run through July 13.

"Three Penny Opera" will run at the Circus from July 17 through July 22 and "The Cherry Orchard" from July 24 to 19 "Bye, Bye Birdie" will close the season with a run from August 21 to September 2.

STUDENTS PERFORM

In "Piano Laboratory," discussion classes and lessons featuring the piano, two students are being held through this week at The New School for Music Study, 353 Nassau Street. This is a step for piano teachers. The students are taking their regular piano lessons in front of 30 teachers who have come from all over the country for the two-week study course.

Ten beginning students played during the first week. They are Patrick Costello, Linda Borch, Diane Figg, Jeanette Rastetter, for example, Ruth Gordon, Elyse Reissman, Sam LaMar, Jane Pearce and David Jaffee. All completed 14 weeks of study performed on June 27. They are Leonard Kingsley, Peter Kaufmann, Jim Schaefer, Peter Ruster, James Martin Rosen and James Lent. Seven boys and girls who had just completed their piano playing last Friday are Jeanne Favreau, Andrew Cheng, Louise Fletcher, Cheryl Nease, Karen Peter, Linda, John Tompkins and David Vomacka. Third year students who performed were Charles Ashton, Eugene O'Neil, Mary Holland and Leslie Reisch.

Private students enrolled at the school have been playing the piano for the visiting piano teachers. These students are Ethan Gelbaum, Thomas

A WORKER OF MIRACLES: The striking story of Helen Keller's childhood and her first encounter with Anne Sullivan will be told again when "The Miracle Worker" opens at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope. The play will be on the boards from next Monday through July 21. Annette Flunt and Roma Gale are shown in a scene from the production.

Cheng, Ronald Tucco, Joseph Chang, Mrs. Donald McClure and Suzanne Jeffrey of Toms River.

Adult beginners demonstrated their musical ability in an evening concert Thursday, May 31 at the Princeton Art Center. Mrs. Thomas Marshall, Lent, Mrs. Thomas Marshall, and Mrs. R. P. Rock.

Notes On The Theatres
ents in Paris, the Riviera and Monaro push family unit to a point of exhaustion. Comment: a bring-up-daddy show.

Mr. Hobbs Takes A Vacation (July 11-17) Jimmy Stewart, Maureen O'Hara and Fabian O'Dea in the story of a father who has been separated from his wife and children on the beach. Miss O'Hara, as pretty as ever, overrides the desire of her husband, wonderfully portrayed by Stewart, for a honeymoon for two and reconnection for the entire family, which also includes two married daughters, their respective spouses, and a 14-year-old son, Lent, Mrs. Thomas Marshall, daughter, Lauri Peters, and their youngest child, Michael Burns. The beach mountains through the charming costume, Reginald Gardner, and Valerie Varda, who portrays a beach siren in pursuit of Stewart. Comment: slick comedy.

THE GARDEN

A Taste of Honey (July 4-10) a contemporary drama, based on Sheridan LeFanu's play of the same name. It's about a young English girl, Helen, who has a secret relationship with a Negro sailor. Helen becomes pregnant by him, and then is cared for by a homosexual lad she befriends.

Newcomer Rita Tushingham plays Helen. Far from pretty she has a wonderfully expressive face, which radiates sincerity, fear, and tenderness. Bryan as her vulgar and brassy mother turns in an excellent performance, as does Murray Head, as the man who Helen takes under her wing. Comment: the material is inflammable, the treatment is subdued.

The Cabinet of Caligari (July 11-17) has elements of weirdness and horror and may well be considered the "Psycho" of 1920. Sturdily told, the film contains daring dialogue, interrogations and shocking depiction of clinical references to sexual behavior.

Clynn Johnson portrays Jane, a woman under psychological and Dr. O'Herriley is Dr. He is a man of many make-up and change of character, intersects a schizophrenic personality into the mystifying world of the film. The famous old masterpiece of horror, brought here from Germany 40 years ago, is a fascinating study in "unbelievable" situations. The ending is made to suffer the pains of memory. Comment: horrifying.

IT'S NEW
To Us

GOT AN OLD FUR?
We'll restore it. On recent salaries through the attic came upon an old squirrel skin with its boot on, you may say, had once been blessed with a nose, but now on mother's shoulders in the days when ladies wore squirrel across their shoulders, but it had been a "Grandmother" still, but she's now wearing a mink stole.

Well, anyway, the moral of this is that elderly and retiring fur can be restyled and renewed by Knaue's, the fur shop in New Brunswick. The sum is a fine time to have this work done because then you'll be ready with a "new"
fur piece when the first crisp days come.

The shop is located at 5
Livingston Avenue, off George Street, and the phone is CHARTER 7-2010.

Take your fur garment to the shop and let the experts look it over.
If the fur is only worn, Knaue's will tell you so and spare you the cost of restyling. If, however, the fur can be re-fashioned, Knaue's will show you sketches, fasten back to canvas models so that you can decide what you want. The shop's experts will advise you about the cost of the work which can be most successfully made from your particular fur — not every kind of fur is suitable for every garment.

For example, you may decide that the version of the stole called the bubble-cap in which the skins are worked vertically instead of horizontally as in a skin. You may prefer a belt to wear with a suit or a fall dress.

If necessary, your old fur will be re-dyed and in any case, it will be cleaned and furshed so that the old squirrel hardly knows himself.
Before the work begins,
Knaue's will give you a pre-

A Book on Books
You can have almost as much fun this summer in that traditional summer hobby as reading a little book on books as you can have reading the books themselves.

We refer to a 25-cent
"Selected Paperbacks" catalog
published by the M. S. Book Shop in New York. In this catalog, titles are arranged by subject, and there are more than 15,000 titles to keep you occupied.

You'll find "Letters of a Woman Homesteader," and
"Mars Is My Destination," there, "Letters to Questioners About Aquarium
Fishes" and "Madame Barovary," "Dennis the Menace's Baby-Sitter's Guide," and "Gardening for the Man and His Work." We are torn between the Penguin "Book of Canadian Verse" and "Will Acting Spoil Marilyn Monroe?"

Male's has a sizeable number of these 15,000 paperback titles on shelf, and you, of course, order any others you want.

See figure in dollars and cents not just a vague estimate, so that you will know exactly how much your new fur cap, or your new fur hat, your new little jacket, trimmed down from a bulky old coat, will cost you on the day you pick it up.

PRINCETON READS HEAVY

But Carries Light. When Princeton residents go off on vacation, they take with them books that are light in weight and light in price.

That's the consensus at Male's, where pre-vacation sales have been heavy in, let's say, the non-fiction C. P. Snow style (frivolous readings); many of which are available in light-weight paperback editions.

Theodore White's, "The Making of a President" is now 95 cents paperback, and so is "The Journal of Anne Frank" if you want to down your French.

"Lord of the Flies," has been a top-seller for some time and now, Malen's has William Golding's "Harrison Bergeron," written after "Lord of the Flies" and quite as shattering in its total effect.

On the hard cover side, Male's recommends Herbert Gold's "The Age of Happy Problems" in which the author explores the meaning, work and marriage and work, drawing his title from the remark of a TV producer that TV audiences wanted "happy people with happy problems."

Walter Kerr's "Decline of Pleasure" is certainly appropriate for vacation, and if you have time to read it, you are a living example of Mr. Kerr's thesis.

GROVERS CELEBRATE

60th Wedding Day Marked.
Mr. and Mrs. George Grover of 16 Chestnut Street observed their 60th wedding anniversary Tuesday surrounded by their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and friends.
Life-long residents of Princeton, they were a picture of honor at a picnic held at the home of their son, Raymond, of 33 Chestnut Street.

The way we both feel today,
Mrs. Grover, 78, the former

It was a day for looking back. Mrs. Grover, 78, the former Mary Grethler, had attended
Miss Stevens School at 19
Alexander Street, Miss Rose
Warren's School on Nassau Street and the public school.
She went as a bride to live at the Grover farm, where Princeton Hospital is now located.

"Things went so easy those days," she recalls. "Coal fires and no electric from the Princeton Powerhouse have had their consequences recently."

Under the Point System, the Grovers built the pond and helped develop Lake Carnegie.
His farming days over, he became a taxi driver in the community.

The Grovers had five children. Helen, now Mrs. E. W.
Lugino, of Princeton, and three sons, Nathan, Richard and Robert, survive. They have eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

In summing up, the bride of June 1902, after warm advice, is the bride of June 1962. "Take the bitter with the sweet," she says.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD
Against McDonald Mathey
A criminal trial on charges of skating rinks has been arranged in General Sessions Court in New York, charged with having taken over $100,000 from the firm of McDonald Mathey of the Nassau Club.

Peter Carver, the designer, had been retained to construct a hockey rink at the Nassau School, to which Mr. Mathey had contributed $25,000. According to the indictment, Mr.
Carver personally Mr. Mathey had him design a portable project to test the commercial possibilities in portable ice-skating rinks.

Mr. Carver is said to have told Mr. Mathey that he was buying equipment, and to have spent $24,300. When he told him the supplier was a new one, only to find that the warehouse was empty.

Mr. Mathey had Mr. Carver arrested on Aug. 19, in April for the theft of $12,200 in Freehold for $10,220 in New York. Mr. Carver's business address is on W. 46th Street in New York.

THIS NATION UNDER GOD? The decision of the Supreme Court barring non-sectarian prayer in New York public schools has created much controversy. For the opinion of the Rev. Robert Cape (left) and the Rev. F. Hugh Lifton and others, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the Supreme Court's ruling barring non-sectarian prayers in public schools?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Rev. Dr. Richard Luecke, minister, Lutheran Church of the Messiah: The Supreme Court ruling makes appeal to the established church clause of the First Amendment. It judges a prayer composed by public officials and read by publicly-financed teachers to be of "public character" and "of a public religious" character. This ruling does not mean the "disestablishment" of religion in this country but only a legal recognition of the right of separation, including that of not speaking of God at all. People of many faiths may take heart from this decision, it is a stand against a religious "orthodoxism" of many sorts in the public schools. It identifies "public school religion" as something to be reckoned with. And it gives a fresh charter to families, synagogues and churches to train their own in the proper sources and the full implication of their faith. Faith isn't really expressed by a non-sectarian prayer, it is a denial of prayer at the beginning of the day. It even seems a kind of denial of faith to pretend that it is.

Rev. F. Hugh Lifton, minister, Second Presbyterian Church, Princeton: I believe that when the President made a very wise observation in saying that the Court's ruling should encourage family to pray more at home. I think that if people feel otherwise, but I feel it is one of the few positive and constructive statements in a difficult area. I personally believe the worth of a 22-word prayer at the beginning of a school day. If it isn't banned as a religious exercise, like I don't think it counts very much, really. If the teachers are atheistic in their attitude toward religion, then I don't think it would count very much.

Rev. Robert L. Cape, minister, Unitarian Church: I think it was an eminently sound ruling. I completely agree with the Supreme Court in declaring a simple and voluntary prayer as unconstitutional. However, the decision cuts out the ridiculous notion that separation of church and state is placed on separation of the worth of a 22-word prayer at the beginning of a school day. If it isn't banned as a religious exercise, like I don't think it counts very much, really. If the teachers are atheistic in their attitude toward religion, then I don't think it would count very much.

Rev. Donald W. Metcalf, minister, First Presbyterian Church: I believe that this decision by the Supreme Court is an overstrict or literal interpretation of the First Amendment made sufficient regard to the large part which the worship of, and dependence upon, God have played in the history of this country from the beginning. The logic of the decision would prevent any mention of God in any school, in any portion of the State, and in all public gatherings.

The Court's decision could have been better, however. If it had been more realistic into the realization that prayer and instruction in all religious sensitivities are the primary concern of the family and that the school never can, with or without prayer, be delegated anything like a significant role in that claim. The decision does also guard against both the perfunctory or routine approach to prayer in the classroom, a sober assumption and any tendency in the direction of the identification of God with any one State. Nevertheless, I do not favor the decision.

Rev. Charles W. Marker, minister, First Methodist Church of Princeton: I think, in general, it is a good thing to separate religion from schools as far as instruction is concerned. For one thing, I think it is one more indication of a secularizing tendency in our society. I don't know if the decision, in itself, to ban prayer from the classroom is a good thing, but I think that, like by little, we are surrendering the traditions that have been common in our country. I do know that we are bending over backwards to separate church and state in a manner our grandparents and fathers never imagined. To be consistent with the decision we would have to stop saying "This nation under God" and the like. In my opinion, I feel religious instruction in a school is out of place but to ban non-sectarian prayers is a concession to secularism.

Rev. Edward C. Henry, St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church: I think the Supreme Court in declaring a simple and voluntary prayer as unconstitutional is indeed regrettable. However, the decision cuts out the ridiculous notion that separation of church and state is placed on separation of the worth of a 22-word prayer at the beginning of a school day. If it isn't banned as a religious exercise, like I don't think it counts very much, really. If the teachers are atheistic in their attitude toward religion, then I don't think it would count very much.

John L. Childs, 151 Laurel Circle, retired Columbia University professor: I think it was overdue. I feel that some people found it difficult to maintain their love for overstatement of traditional doctrine of the separation of Church and State.

Mrs. Maureen Schaeffer, 25 Madison Street, housewife: Basically, I agree with the decision. I think it is a wise decision, an incomprehensible in American thinking. The problem is that we have a Constitution which provides for a state religion, namely Protestantism. Its thinking and tradition. Yet I can't make anyone pray in school and yet you have this Constitution. It is basically a contradiction. I think it reveals a deeper problem other than just whether we make our children pray in public school or not. It is something this country definitely has to resolve and soon.

Dr. Samuel Smith, 811 Main Street, attorney: I think the Court has lost the sense of its purpose. Its purpose isn't to take religion out of the schools. Freedom of religion is not freedom from religion.

Robert S. Alshaby, Skillman, psychologist: I support it fully, every respect. I don't understand such an adverse reaction to the decision because I don't feel anybody's religious freedom is threatened or will be threatened in the future. On the contrary, I feel it protects everybody's right to profess his or her religion freely. It keeps the separation of the state and religion and I feel it should be maintained as an strict separation. Since the Supreme Court has such legislative body, I feel we ought to comply with its ruling. I feel the Constitution is working in the best interest of anybody's interest. It protects individuals from every point of view, including religion. And

THE STAR MEANS A BRANCH BANK: If banking authorities give their approval, Princeton Bank and Trust will open a branch office in Princeton Township at the juncture of Route 206, Mt. Lucas Road and the Mt. Rose-Rocky Hill Road. It is scheduled for competitive bidding.

BUSINESS In Princeton

BANK PLANS BRANCH

In Township. Princeton Bank and Trust plans to build a second branch in Princeton Township, subject to approval by state and Federal banking officials.

The proposed branch will be built on the peninsula of land toward Route 206, Mt. Lucas Road and the Mt. Rose-Rocky Hill Road. The eight-acre tract has extensive frontage on all three roads, and lies within Princeton's commercial zone at the extreme northern part of the municipality. Montgomery Avenue is across the boundary. The land will be purchased from Dr. Cornelius Jaynes.

In the new office structure, Princeton Bank and Trust will offer drive-up windows, consumer credit offices, electronic bookkeeping equipment and a telephone switchboard.

Announcing the expansion, George R. Cook, III, president of the bank, said that an independent survey made for the bank showed that the area's greatest growth in residential and commercial construction had occurred within a one-mile radius of the Jaynes property, and that the survey showed the growth to be continuing at a rapid rate.

Princeton Bank and Trust established its first branch in 1934 in the Township at the Princeton Shopping Center and later acquired the building for the offices. It maintains in Hopewell. Both will remain in operation after the new building has been completed.

If the required approvals are obtained and the bank believes that they will be, the Route 206 office will be ready next July.

again, I don't understand why individuals feel so threatened by something which is legally, ethically, and morally correct.

Mrs. John F. Borden, 40 Green Road, housewife I'm in favor of it. It seems to me that it should be done at home or in church. I agree wholeheartedly with the separation of church and state.

Maxwell Luria, 12 Regatta Row, graduate student, English: I am very much in favor of it. It seems to me that it is the duty of the state to legislate prayers for children or for anyone else.

Herbert Abelson, 137 Locomotive Court, psychologist, for ORC: I'm very much in favor of that. It seems to me another instance whereby the Supreme Court is asserting a distinction between church and state in our country.

Richard Winterbottom, 12, 80 Erdman Avenue, Little Brook School: I think it should be banned. It might be offensive to a lot of people, and they might use a prayer that did not feature their religion, and it might be offensive, too, to those who are not religious. I think it is a bad idea, though. I don't think it would mean much because I feel they could get more out of other activities. I don't see how they could have a better attitude on prayer in school. I think people should pray at home or alone when they can feel it inside when they know what it means to them.

David Hughes, Route 27, Kingston, graduate student, political science: I approve. I'm very much in favor of the separation of church and state, and it seems to me if you are going to have a separation, it is going to have to be all the way. If you accept prayers in schools, then you are going to have to accept a lot of other things.

Hayward Atker, 7 Hardin Road, graduate student, political science: I believe the Supreme Court's action is consistent with the Constitution and therefore the right action to be taken, if anyone is in disagreement with it, is to move for a Constitutional amendment. And I must say that the Court's decision appears to be making a big thing about it and how terrible the Christians are, those who have not excelled in other areas of Congressional action. I approve of Emanuel Ceile's defense of the Court.

Princeton seems to be bucking the national trend where age of marriage is concerned. The Popular Reference Bureau, Washington, D. C., has prophesied that nearly two-thirds of this year's brides and one-third of the grooms will be in their teens, if recent trends continue.

In Princeton, 14 marriage licenses were issued in June. Of these, the oldest bride was a teenager. The rest were 21 or older.

TO FINISH IN AUGUST
The Public Works Department Service expects to complete in early August the pipe-laying operations that have torn up segments of Route 206, north of Princeton.

The company has been laying pipe to accommodate the Holman Power Company plant in Princeton, and the 74-house development of Princeton Ridge, also in Rocky Hill.

The longest stretch of pipe is a 12,400-foot segment of 16-inch welded steel gas main which is being laid on Route 206 through Princeton Township, Montgomery Township and Rocky Hill. In addition, pipe is laying 2,540 feet of 12-inch main on Washington Street in Rocky Hill and 700 feet of 4-inch main on Crescent Avenue, where the gas line will be located.

Public Service has also been installing 1,320 feet of 8-inch main along Ewing Street in Princeton Township for homes in that area.

The 206 installations have presented a traffic problem to Princeton police and to those who have asked Public Service to keep their equipment and operations as far along, the shoulder as possible; however, the shoulder is narrow and there is a steep ditch so that much of the heavy-duty equipment must remain on the road itself.

CLAM BAKE TO BE HELD

IN Blawenburg. The Montgomery Township Volunteer Fire Company No. 2 will hold its annual clam bake Saturday, July 14, from noon until 5.

The affair will be held, rain or shine, at Johnson's Grove Spring Hill Road, located just off of Route 318 about halfway between Blawenburg and Hopewell. Ronald and Donald Perkins and Donald Perkins are co-chairmen of the committee in charge.

Reservations are not necessary, but it is requested that they be purchased in advance if possible. Additional information and tickets are available through James Dawson at WA 1-8065.

PLAYGROUNDS ARE OPEN

IN Lawrence Township. The Crossing, Elbridge, Park School, Lawrence Junior High, Lawrenceville Public School and Slackwood School in Lawrence Township are now open from 9:30 to 4 Monday through Friday.

The tennis courts at Lawrenceville, the football and soccer field and basketball at Lawrenceville School will be made available. Arrangements for tennis instruction and reservations may be made through the instructor at the above sites.

The again little Nine Pin and Pee Wee Baseline Leagues will be part of the recreational program. Approximately 150 boys from 6 to 12 will play two games a week for six weeks. Instruction and practice sessions will be held daily under the supervision of Michael Radice, senior instructor.

RAIN SLOWS ACTION

In baseball, rain is the enemy. The wet month of June caused a variety of postponements which resulted in numerous rescheduling problems in the Princeton and surrounding Leagues. Last week, for example, Tuesday's full four-game slate was washed off by the elements. Instead, with only two previously-rained out contests being staged on one of the few dry evenings of the Industrial Research laboratory and Gulton Ortholos were the winners, defeating, respectively, Opinion Research, 15 to 3, and Columbia Carbon, 10 to 10. The results did not affect the standings of the top three first division teams, all of which were kept just as they are but Gulton Ortholos replaced it to climb into a fourth-place tie with Electro-Mechanical Research.

Charlie O'Neill was the winning pitcher for Industrial Research, spacing six hits without difficulty. ORC moved out to a short-lived 2-0 lead on the basis of a first inning triple by John Ballman, who hit safely twice thereafter.

The victors were paced by Ken Skrabski with four hits, three of them home runs. Ray Gunnick, Herb Smith and Joe Williams all collected three safeties for Industrial Research.

A last inning, bases-filled rally by Columbian Carbon fell short with the winning run on first to give Gulton Ortholos the 15-13 verdict. Its first victory in its last three games, the six-run opening round kept the visitors on top all the way. Ron Kline, picking up the win, Mike Meow had a perfect night at the plate for the losing team with a five-for-five performance.

The standings: W. L. Pet.
